Dear Jackson,

I regret that I was not at home when you called.

Lady Dundonald has seen Lord Grey and he has expressed his readiness to do all he can: But I understand that there is something in the way -- and I believe it to be an infamous and revengeful declaration of Mr Butts, that he was present when Dr Berenger was at the exchange (according to his lying book) on the evening of the 19 of July 1824.

Now if you have Mr Butts' letter declaring that he never saw him at the [1] exchange it would be highly important to have the letter in town —for Bardett assures me that he will bring the whole affair before Parliament of they do not do me justice.

Believe me ever
Dear Jackson
most sincerely yours
Dundonald
