Camp near Megara
21 April 1827

My dear Lord
I shall be ready to march tomorrow morning either into the Camp of Karaiskaki or to Eleusis; he does not (in his telling) give me to understand clearly his view of the manner of attacking or whether the troops of the squad lartens are like to be more useful in the Camp - or cooperating in another direction from Eleusis. I want to do everything in my power for the grand object and also to save his amour propre, but must know his wishes clearly about Eleusis, or the camp before more in order not to lose time.
His ideas are for calling troops here & there & that I cannot nor will not do. I have just sent to him to say that I am ready to come into the camp or go to Eleusis just as is most conducive to his operation.

Yours Ever
my dear Lord
R. Church

I sent again to Karaiskaki to say that will march into his camp or take part off Eleusis which ever most facilitates his movements.
